Introduction

This book is designed to revise and consolidate grammar points at the level of Cambridge ESOL Proficiency and CAE or Common European Framework levels C1 and C2.

This revised edition updates the material in accordance with changes to Cambridge Proficiency and CAE, but also provides a range of practice formats for this level.

The grammar section includes additional revision and more advanced points. Units on phrasal verbs, prepositions and linking devices are also included. There are also sections on spelling and punctuation.

The grammatical information provided can be used for reference when needed or worked through systematically.

The vocabulary section includes topic-based vocabulary, collocations and idiomatic phrases, as well as word formation and multiple meaning. It also revises work on prepositions and phrasal verbs.

The book can be used as a self-study reference grammar and practice book or as supplementary material in classes preparing for the CAE and Proficiency exams. If used for classwork, activities can be done individually or co-operatively in pairs or small groups.

There are regular consolidation units which include forms of testing commonly used in both exams and the material covers a range of difficulty appropriate to both exams.

GRAMMAR

Present time

Basic contrasts: present simple and present continuous

- The present simple generally refers to:
  - Facts that are always true
Water boils at 100 degrees Celsius.
  - Habits
British people drink a lot of tea.
  - States
I don't like gangster films.
- The present continuous (progressive) generally refers to actions which are in progress at the moment. These can be temporary:
  - I'm staying in a hotel until I find a flat.*
  - They can be actually in progress.
The dog is sleeping on our bed!
  - Or they can be generally in progress but not actually happening at the moment.
I'm learning to drive.
- State verbs and event (action or dynamic) verbs
State verbs describe a continuing state, so they do not usually have a continuous form.
Typical examples are:
believe, belong, consist, contain, doubt, fit, have, know, like, love, matter, mean, need, own, prefer, seem, suppose, suspect, understand, want, wish
- Some verbs have a stative meaning and a different active meaning. Typical examples are:
be, depend, feel, have, measure, see, taste, think, weigh Compare these uses:

State	Event
Jack is noisy.	Jill's being noisy.
Deirdre has a Porsche.	We're having an interesting conversation!
I think I like you!	David's thinking about getting a new job.
This fish tastes awful!	I'm just tasting the soup.
I feel that you are wrong.	I'm feeling terrible.
This bag weighs a ton!	We're weighing the baby.
It depends what you mean.	Bill, I'm depending on you to win this contract for us.

The differences here apply to all tense forms, not just to present tense forms.

Other uses of the present continuous

- Temporary situations
Are you enjoying your stay here?
- Repeated actions
My car has broken down, so I am walking to work these days.
- Complaints about annoying habits
You are always making sarcastic remarks about my cooking!
Other possible adverbs are: constantly, continually, forever.
- With verbs describing change and development
The weather is getting worse!
More and more people are giving up smoking.

Other uses of the present simple

- Making declarations
Verbs describing opinions and feelings tend to be state verbs.
I hope you'll come to my party.
I bet you don't know the answer!
I hereby declare this hospital open!
- Headlines
These are written in a 'telegram' style, and references to the past are usually simplified to the present simple.
Ship sinks in midnight collision.
- Instructions and itineraries
Instructions and recipes can be written in the present simple instead of in imperative forms. This style is more personal.
First you roll out the pastry.
Itineraries are descriptions of travel arrangements.
On day three we visit Stratford-upon-Avon.
- Summaries of events
Plots of stories, films etc, and summaries of historical events use present (and present perfect) verb forms.
May 1945: The war in Europe comes to an end.
... At the end of the play both families realize that their hatred caused the deaths of the lovers ...
- 'Historic present' in narrative and funny stories
In informal speech, it is possible to use what we call the 'historic present' to describe past events, especially to make the narration seem more immediate and dramatic.
... So then the second man asks the first one why he has a banana in his ear and the first one says ...

1 Underline the correct word or phrase to complete each sentence.

- 1 I haven't decided yet whether to buy a new car or a second-hand one. But I think about it / I'm thinking about it.
- 2 All right, you try to fix the television! But I hope / I'm hoping you know what you're doing.
- 3 Every year I visit / I'm visiting Britain to improve my English.
- 4 It's time we turned on the central heating. It gets / It's getting colder every day.
- 5 Of course, you're Mary, aren't you! I recognize / I am recognizing you now.
- 6 The film of War and Peace is very long. It lasts / It is lasting over four hours.
- 7 I can see from what you say that your mornings are very busy! But what do you do / are you doing in the afternoons?
- 8 I'm going to buy a new swimming costume. My old one doesn't fit / isn't fitting any more.
- 9 That must be the end of the first part of the performance. What happens / is happening now?
- 10 What's the matter? Why do you look / are you looking at me like that?

2 Underline the correct word or phrase to complete each sentence.

- 1 I work in this office all this year / all the time.
- 2 The Hobbit is currently / for long top of the best-sellers list.
- 3 I am not making much money these days / so far this year.
- 4 The food tastes even worse now / presently. You've put too much salt in.
- 5 Normally / Previously we get in touch with customers by post.
- 6 Pete was ill but he is getting over his illness soon / now.
- 7 I'm feeling rather run down lately / at present, doctor.
- 8 I always stay on duty since / until six o'clock.

GRAMMAR

Future time

Basic contrasts: will, going to, present continuous

- Will is normally known as the predictive future, and describes known facts, or what we suppose is true.

I'll be late home this evening.

The company will make a profit next year.

This can also take the form of an assumption.

That'll be Jim at the door. (This means that I suppose it is Jim.)

- Will is also used to express an immediate decision.

I'll take this one.

- Going to describes intentions or plans. At the moment of speaking the plans have already been made.

I'm going to wait here until Carol gets back.

Going to is also used to describe an event whose cause is present or evident.

Look at that tree! It's going to fall.

Compare the following with the will examples above:

I'm going to be late this evening. I've got lots of paperwork to finish off.

The figures are good. I can see the company is going to make a profit this year.

Decisions expressed with going to refer to a more distant point in the future.

- The present continuous describes fixed arrangements, especially social and travel arrangements. A time reference is usually included. Note the strong similarity to the going to future.

I am having a party next week / I am going to have a party next week.

(The message is the same.)

Future continuous

- This describes an event which will be happening at a future point.

Come round in the morning. I'll be painting in the kitchen.

- It can also describe events which are going to happen anyway, rather than events which we choose to make happen.

I won't bother to fix a time to see you, because I'll be calling into the office anyway several times next week.

- In some contexts the future continuous also sounds more polite than will.

Will you be going to the shops later? If you go, could you get me some milk?

- It can also be used to refer to fixed arrangements and plans.

The band will be performing live in Paris this summer.

Future perfect

- This has both simple and continuous forms, and refers to time which we imagine looking back at from a future point.
In two years' time I'll have finished the book.
By the end of the month, I'll have been working for this firm for a year.
- It can also be used to express an assumption on the part of the speaker.
You won't have heard the news, of course. (I assume you have not heard the news.)

Other ways of referring to the future

- Is / are to be
This is used to describe formal arrangements.
All students are to assemble in the hall at 9.00.
See also Grammar 9 and 10 for uses expressing obligation.
- Be about to, be on the point of, be due to, just / just about to
Be about to and be on the point of both refer to the next moment.
I think the play is about to start now.
Be due to refers to scheduled times.
Ann's flight is due to arrive at 6.20. (or is due at 6.20)
Just can be used to describe something on the point of happening.
Hurry up! The train is just leaving / just about to leave.
- Present simple and present perfect
The present simple is used to refer to future time in future time clauses.
When we get there, we'll have dinner.
The present perfect can also be used instead of the present simple when the completion of the event is emphasized.
When we've had a rest, we'll go out.
- The present simple is also used to describe fixed events which are not simply the wishes of the speaker.
Tom retires in three years.
Similarly, calendar references use the present simple.
Christmas is on a Tuesday next year.

Other future references

- Hope
This can be followed by either present or future verb forms.
I hope it doesn't rain. I hope it won't rain.
- Other verbs followed by will
Most verbs of thinking can be followed by will if there is future reference. These include: think, believe, expect, doubt.
I expect the train will be late. I doubt whether United will win.
- Shall
Shall for first person singular and plural is now used only in questions in everyday informal speech. See Grammar 9 and 10 for other uses of shall and will.

GRAMMAR

Past time

Basic contrasts: past simple and past continuous

- The past simple generally refers to:
  - Completed actions
I got up, switched off the radio, and sat down again.
  - Habits
Every day I went to the park.
  - States
In those days, I didn't like reading.
- The past continuous (progressive) generally refers to:
  - Actions in progress (often interrupted by events)
I was drinking my coffee at the time.
While I was opening the letter, the phone rang.
  - Background description in narrative
I entered the office and looked around. Most people were working at their desks, but Jane was staring out of the window and pretending to write something at the same time.
  - Changing states
The car was getting worse all the time. One of the headlights was gradually falling off, and the engine was making more and more funny noises.
  - Repeated actions – criticism
With a frequency adverb, this use is similar to the use of the present continuous to express annoyance.
When Jane was at school, she was always losing things.
- The past continuous is not used to describe general habitual actions without the sense of criticism mentioned above. The past simple is used for this meaning.
When I lived in London, I walked through the park every day.

Past perfect simple and continuous

- We use the past perfect when we are already talking about the past, and we want to refer back to an earlier past time ('past in the past').
By the time I got to the station, the train had left.
Compare this with:
The train left five minutes before I got to the station.
When we talk about a sequence of past events in the order that they happened, we more commonly use the past simple, especially with quick, short actions.
- The past perfect continuous (progressive)
The same contrasts between the past simple and the past continuous (see previous section) can be made in past perfect verb forms for events further back in the past.
I had been living in a tiny flat up to then.

While I had been talking on the phone, Jimmy had escaped.

The whole place was deserted, but it was obvious that someone had been living there.

They'd been cooking in the kitchen for a start, and they hadn't bothered to clear up the mess.

- The past perfect is also common in reported speech. See Grammar 13.
- The past perfect is not used simply to describe an event in the distant past.

Used to and would

● Used to

This often contrasts with the present. The contrast may be stated or understood. There is no present tense form 'use to'.

I used to go swimming a lot. (but I don't now)

The negative form is either: *I didn't use to or *I used not to (rare for some speakers).

The form *I didn't used to may also be found. This is usually considered incorrect, unless we consider used to as an unchanging semi-modal form.

● Would

This describes a habitual activity which was typical of a person or a time period.

Every week he'd buy his mother a bunch of flowers. (habitual activity)

It is used for repeated actions, but not for states.

I used to like cowboy films. (would cannot be used here)

Where we use would to describe a habitual activity, used to is also possible.

Every week he used to buy his mother a bunch of flowers.

Would is more common in written language and often occurs in reminiscences.

Unfulfilled past events

- These describe events intended to take place, but which did not happen.

I was going to phone you, but I forgot.

I was thinking of going to Italy this year, but I haven't decided.

I was about to do it, but I started doing something else.

Jack was to have taken part, but he fell ill.

- The contrasting past event is often understood, but not stated.

How are you? I was going to phone you ... (but I didn't).

Polite forms

Past forms are often used to talk about the future when we want to be more tentative or polite. This is common with wonder.

I was wondering if you wanted to come to the cinema.

Contrasts with present perfect verb forms

See Grammar 4 for contrasts between past simple and present perfect verb forms.

Past verb forms are also used to express unreal time. See Grammar 7 and 8.

GRAMMAR

Present perfect

Present perfect simple

- The present perfect simple is used for the following situations.
  - Recent events, without a definite time given. The recentness may be indicated by just.
We've missed the turning. I've just seen a ghost!
  - Indefinite events, which happened at an unknown time in the past. No definite time is given.
Jim has had three car accidents. (up to the present)
  - Indefinite events which may have an obvious result in the present.
I've twisted my ankle. (That's why I'm limping.)
  - With state verbs, to describe a state which lasts up to the present.
I've lived here for the past ten years.
  - A habitual action in a period of time up to the present.
I've played tennis every morning for the last month.
- Contrast with the past simple
  - The past simple is used with time expressions which refer to definite times. The time may be stated or understood. Compare:
I've bought a new car. (indefinite time)
I bought a new car last week. (definite time)
I bought the car after all. (implied definite: the car we talked about)
  - The choice between the past simple and the present perfect for recent events may depend on the attitude of the speaker. This in turn may depend on whether the speaker feels distant in time or place from the event. Compare:
I've left my wallet in the car. I'm going back to get it.
I left my wallet in the car. I'm going back to get it.
  - In the first example the speaker may have just walked away from the car, and feels that the event is connected with the present.
  - In the second example the speaker may feel more separated in time from the event, or be further away.

Present perfect continuous

- The present perfect continuous (progressive) can be used for a range of situations, depending on the time expression used and the context.
  - A state which lasts up to the present moment
I've been waiting for you for three hours!
  - An incomplete activity
I've been cleaning the house but I still haven't finished.
  - To emphasize duration
I've been writing letters all morning.

LANGUAGE PRACTICE FOR ADVANCED

A recently finished activity

I've been running. That's why I look hot.

A repeated activity

I've been taking French lessons this year.

- Contrast with the present perfect simple

There may be little contrast when some state verbs are used.

How long have you lived here?

How long have you been living here?

Some verbs (especially sit, lie, wait and stay) are more often used in the continuous form.

There may be a contrast between completion and incompletion, especially if the number of items completed is mentioned.

Completed: emphasis on achievement

I've ironed five shirts.

Incomplete, or recently completed: emphasis on duration

I've been ironing my shirts.

Time expressions with the present perfect

- The use of present perfect verb forms is often associated with certain time expressions.

Past simple: referring to a specific finished time.

yesterday, last week, on Sunday

Present perfect: with 'indefinite' time expressions meaning 'up to now'.

since 1968, already

- Other time expressions are not associated with a specific verb form, since they can refer both to finished time or time up to the present, depending on the speaker's perspective.

GRAMMAR

Passive 1

Basic uses of the passive

- Agent and instrument

The person who performs an action in a passive sentence is called the 'agent', introduced by by. The agent may or may not be mentioned in the sentence.

My purse was found by one of the cleaners.

A new road has been built.

An object which causes something to happen is called an 'instrument', introduced by with.

He was hit on the head with a hammer.

- Verbs with two objects

Verbs which have two objects can be made passive in two ways.

I was handed a note. A note was handed to me.

A note was handed to me by one of the office assistants.*

Other common verbs of this type are bring, give, lend, pass, pay, promise, sell, send, show, tell.

- Verbs with object and complement

Some verbs are used with a noun or adjective (the complement) which describes the object.

We elected Jim class representative.

Everyone considered him honest.

They made Susan James General Manager.

When these sentences are made passive, the complement goes directly after the verb.

Jim was elected class representative.

Susan James was made General Manager.

- Verbs which cannot be passive

Most verbs with an object (transitive verbs) can be made passive.

For example, drive is transitive because one can drive something (a car).

However, a few transitive verbs may not be used in the passive:

become, fit (be the right size), get, have, lack, let, like, resemble, suit.

Verbs with no object (intransitive) cannot be passive.

For example sleep is intransitive; you cannot 'sleep something'. Therefore it is not possible to say 'The baby was slept'.

Instead the sentence must be active: The baby slept.

Mentioning or not mentioning the agent

- Change of focus

The passive can change the emphasis of a sentence.

Jack won the prize. (focus on Jack)

The prize was won by Jack. (focus on the prize)

However, the emphasis might change in speech, according to the wishes of the speaker.

The prize was won by Jack.

If the speaker stresses the word Jack, then the focus is on him.

- Unknown agent

The agent is not mentioned if unknown.

Two windows have been broken.

In this case, there is no point in adding an agent: 'by somebody'.

- Generalized agent

If the subject is 'people in general' or 'you', the agent is not mentioned.

Bicycles are widely used in the city instead of public transport.

- Obvious agent

If the agent is obvious or has already been referred to, it is not mentioned.

Linda has been arrested! (we assume by the police)

The company agreed to our request and a new car park was opened.

- Unimportant agent

If the agent is not important to the meaning of the sentence, it is not mentioned.

I was advised to obtain a visa in advance.

- Impersonality

Using the passive is a way of avoiding the naming of a specific person who is responsible for an action.

It has been decided to reduce all salaries by 10%.

In descriptions of processes, the passive is used to emphasize the actions performed rather than the people who perform them.

Then the boxes are packed into crates.

- Formality

Statements made by organizations are often made passive, while the same information given person to person might be active.

Tickets are sold one hour before the bus leaves. (impersonal, formal)

They sell tickets one hour before the bus leaves. (personal, informal)

GRAMMAR

Passive 2

Have and get something done, need doing

- Have / get something done

This typically describes a service performed for us by someone else.

I'm going to have / get my car serviced. I have / get it done every winter.

It can also describe something unfortunate that happens to someone.

We had / got our car broken into last month.

Get is more likely to be used than have:

i) when there is a feeling that something must be done

I really must get my hair cut.

ii) when there is a feeling of eventually managing to do something

I eventually got the car fixed at the Fast Service garage.

iii) in orders and imperatives.

Get your hair cut!*

Note that get should not be used in the present perfect passive, where it would be confused with have got.

I've just had my hair cut. (possible)

I've just got my hair cut. (not possible)

- The need to have a service done can be expressed with need doing.

Your hair needs cutting.

Passive get

Get can be used instead of be to form the passive in spoken language.

Martin got arrested at a football match.

Reporting verbs

- Present reference

With verbs such as believe, know, say, think, which report people's opinions, a passive construction is often used to avoid a weak subject, and to give a generalized opinion.

With present reference, the passive is followed by the present infinitive.

The criminal is thought to be in hiding in the London area.

Vitamin C is known to be good for treating colds.

- Past reference

With past reference, the passive is followed by the past infinitive.

- Past reporting verb

When the reporting verb refers to a past situation, a past infinitive is used. However, when it refers to a present situation, an infinitive is used.

Sue paid too much.

People thought Sue had paid too much.
 Sue was thought to have paid too much.
 The thief is still in the house!
 The police thought that the thief was still in the house.
 The thief was thought to still be in the house.

Note the negative form.

They thought he didn't live there any more.
 He was thought not to live there any more.

- Past reference with two objects

In this case there are two ways of reporting with a passive construction.

Everyone knows the portrait was painted by an Italian.
 The portrait is known to have been painted by an Italian.
 An Italian is known to have painted the portrait.

- Continuous infinitive

Past and present continuous infinitives are also used.

Kate is thought to be living in Scotland.
 The driver is thought to have been doing a U-turn.

Verbs with prepositions

- Ending a sentence with a preposition

It is possible to end a sentence with a preposition in a sentence where a prepositional verb is made passive.

Somebody broke into our house.
 Our house was broken into.

- By and with

With is used after participles such as filled, packed, crowded, crammed.

The train was packed with commuters.

The difference between by and with may depend on whether a person is involved.

Dave was hit by a branch. (an accident)
 Dave was hit with a branch. (a person hit him with one)

- Make is followed by to when used in the passive.

My boss made me work hard.
 I was made to work hard by my boss.

Common contexts for the passive

The passive is common in technical and scientific writing, and generally in spoken and written contexts where there is less use of personal reference, since the audience may be unknown, or the speaker wants to remain impersonal.

7 Rewrite the text using the passive where possible. Do not use the underlined words.

Nobody knows exactly when someone invented gunpowder. People know for a fact that the Chinese made rockets and fireworks long before people used gunpowder in Europe, which was around the beginning of the thirteenth century. We generally believe that gunpowder brought to an end the 'Age of Chivalry', since anyone with a firearm could bring down a mounted knight. In fact, people did not develop efficient firearms until the sixteenth century. They used gunpowder mainly in siege cannon when people first introduced it. Later they used it in engineering work and in mining, but they found that it was extremely dangerous. Modern explosives have now replaced gunpowder, but we still use it for making fireworks, just as the Chinese did.

Conditionals

Basic usage

- What is always true: present + present

If I work late, I get tired.

If the water is boiling, it means the food is nearly ready.

I get the bus if I miss the train.

- What was always true: past + past

We went home early if it was foggy.

If it was snowing, we stayed at home.

She went to bed early if she felt really tired.

- Real situations: present + future

Here we think that the outcome is really possible.

If you keep driving like that, you're going to have an accident.

There won't be enough food if too many people turn up.

- Hypothetical situations: past + would

These are unreal or imaginary situations.

If I knew the answer, I'd tell you.

If I was having a party, I wouldn't invite Marcia.

He wouldn't be afraid of dogs if he had one as a pet.

If she were / was better qualified, she would be ideal for the job.

The verb be usually takes the form were for all persons in these sentences, though was is used in everyday speech. Note that in the first person it is possible to use should instead of would, but this is very formal and old-fashioned.

If I left home, I think I should be lonely.

- Hypothetical past situations: past perfect + would have

These refer to past events.

If I had known you were coming, I would have met you at the station.

I wouldn't have tried to lift it if I'd known it was so heavy!

- With modals

Possible situations in the present

If you get wet, you should change your clothes immediately.

If you come early, we can discuss the problem together.

If we leave now, we might get there by 6.00.

Hypothetical situations

If I had the money, I could help you.

If you were taller, you'd be able to reach the top shelf.

Hypothetical past situations

*She could have been injured if she hadn't been wearing a seat-belt.
If you hadn't reminded me, I might have forgotten.*

Variations

● If only

This adds emphasis to hypothetical situations. With past events it adds a sense of regret. The second part of the sentence is often left out.

If only my phone was working, I could call a taxi.
If only I hadn't drunk too much, this wouldn't have happened!
If only I had enough time!
If only you listened to me!*

● Unless and other alternatives to if

Unless means 'only if not'.

Unless you call me this afternoon, I won't get the tickets.
(This means: I'll only get the tickets if you call me.)
I'll go ahead and get the tickets unless you call me this afternoon.
(This means: If you call me this afternoon, I won't get the tickets.)*

If one situation depends on another, if can be replaced by as / so long as, provided (that) or only if. See Grammar 11 for only if.

*I'll do what you say provided (that) the police are not informed.
You'll be fine, as long as you don't slip!*

Even if describes how something will happen whatever the condition.

Even if it rains, we'll still go for a picnic.
We wouldn't have won the game even if Smith's goal had been allowed.*

● Past events with results in the present: past perfect + would

*If Jim hadn't missed the plane, he would be here by now.
She would still be alive if she had seen a doctor in time.*

● Should

After if, this makes the possibility of an event seem unlikely.

*If you should see Ann, could you ask her to call me?
(This implies that I do not expect you to see Ann.)
Let me know if you should change your mind.
(This implies that I do not expect you to change your mind.)*

● Were to

This also makes an event seem more hypothetical.

*If I were to ask you to marry me, what would you say?
How would you feel if you were to get the job after all?*

● Happen to

This emphasizes chance possibilities. It is often used with should.

*If you happen to see Helen, could you ask her to call me?
If you should happen to be passing, drop in for a cup of tea.*

- If it were not for / If it hadn't been for
This describes how one event depends on another.
If it weren't for Jim, this company would be in a mess.
If it hadn't been for their goalkeeper, United would have lost.

- Will and would: politeness and emphasis
These can be used as polite forms.
If you will / would wait here, I'll see if Mrs Green is free.
Will can also be used for emphasis, meaning 'insist on doing'.
If you will stay out late, no wonder you are tired!

Other ways of making a conditional sentence

- Supposing, otherwise
Supposing or suppose can replace if, mainly in everyday speech.
Supposing you won the lottery, what would you do?
Suppose he comes back, what will you say?
Otherwise means 'if not'. It can go at the beginning or end of the sentence.
If it doesn't rain soon, I'll have to water the garden.
I hope it rains soon, otherwise I'll have to water the garden.
If you hadn't given us directions, we wouldn't have found the house.
Thanks for your directions to the house. We wouldn't have found it otherwise.

- But for
This can replace if not. It is used in formal language, and must be followed by a noun form.
If you hadn't helped us, we would have been in trouble.
But for your help, we would have been in trouble.

- If so, if not
These can refer to a verb in a previous sentence.
There is a possibility that Jack will be late. If so, I will take his place.
Have you completed your project? If not, when do intend to hand it in?

- Colloquial omission of if
An imperative can be used instead of an if clause in everyday speech.
Sit down, and I'll make us a cup of tea. (= If you sit down ...)
Come back later and I'll tell you. (= If you come back later ...)

- If and adjectives
In expressions such as if it is necessary / possible, it is possible to omit the verb be.
If interested, apply within.
If necessary, take a taxi.
If possible, leave before 6.00.

- Formally if can mean 'although', usually followed by an adjective.
The room was well-furnished, if a little badly decorated.
Her work is of a good standard, if sometimes rather untidy.

1 Complete the sentences with the best form of the verbs in brackets.

- 1 Now we're lost! If you (write down) had written down ..... Emma's directions, this (not / happen) .....
- 2 Why don't we emigrate? If we (live) ..... in Australia, at least the weather (be) ..... better!
- 3 I'm afraid that Smith is a hardened criminal. If we (not / punish) ..... him this time, he (only / commit) ..... more crimes.
- 4 Thanks to Dr Jones, I'm still alive! If it (not / be) ..... for her, I (be) ..... dead for certain.
- 5 I'm sorry I can't lend you any money. You know that if I (have) ..... it, I (lend) ..... it to you.
- 6 Don't be afraid. If you (touch) ..... the dog, it (not / bite) .....
- 7 In those days, if you (have) ..... a job, you (be) ..... lucky.
- 8 It's always the same! If I (decide) ..... to leave the office early, my boss (call) ..... me after I've left!
- 9 What a terrible thing to happen! Just think, if we (not / miss) ..... the plane, we (kill) ..... in the crash.
- 10 Did you enjoy your meal? If you (finish) ..... eating, I (clear away) ..... the plates.

GRAMMAR

Unreal time and subjunctives

It's time

- It's time, it's high time

These are followed by the past simple or continuous, though the time referred to is unreal. See Grammar 7.

It's time we left.

It's high time something was done about this!

Wishes

- Present / future time

Notice the past verb forms after wish.

These are wishes where you want to change a present / future state.

I wish I had a motorbike. (I don't have one now.)

I wish I was going on holiday with you next week. (I am not going.)

- Would

Would is used when the speaker wants somebody or something else to change.

I wish he would change his mind and marry Jane.

I wish it would stop raining.

The use with would is often used to describe an annoying habit.

I wish you wouldn't make such a mess.

- Past time

As with present wishes, the verb form after wish is one stage further back in the past.

These are wishes referring to a past event, which cannot be changed.

I wish I hadn't eaten so much.

This use of wish is similar to the use of if only to express regrets. See Grammar 7.

- Hope

Wishes about simple future events are expressed with hope + present simple.

Sometimes a future form can be used.

I hope it doesn't rain tomorrow.

I hope Jim comes / will come to the party tonight.

I'd rather / I'd prefer (followed by a clause)

- I'd rather is followed by past verb forms in the same way as wishes about the present.

It expresses preference about actions.

I'd rather you didn't smoke in here.

Both I'd rather and I'd sooner are used with infinitive without to when comparing nouns or phrases.

I'd rather be a sailor than a soldier. (present)

I'd rather have lived in Ancient Greece than Ancient Rome. (past)

- I'd prefer is used with it + past verb form to express preference about actions.

I'd prefer it if you didn't smoke.

I'd prefer is also used with you / him / her, etc + infinitive with to to show what we would like a person to do. We can add rather than + infinitive without to as a comparison.

I'd prefer you to sit in your seat (rather than sit on the floor).

I'd prefer you not to sit on the floor.

I'd prefer + noun can be used to show which thing we would like to have.

I'd prefer tea to coffee.

As if, as though

- Real and unreal

The verb form here depends on whether the situation is true or unreal.

You look as if you're having second thoughts. (You are having second thoughts.)

He acts as if he were in charge. (Unreal. He isn't in charge.)

I feel as if an express train had hit me. (Unreal. It didn't hit me.)

Note however, that the more colloquial like does not require this verb form change.

This use is not considered acceptable, however, in formal or written English. Compare:

You look like you've just seen a ghost. (informal / colloquial)

You look as if you'd just seen a ghost.

Suppose and imagine

- Understood outcomes

The outcome part of these sentences is often understood but not stated.

Suppose someone told you that I was a spy!

Imagine we'd never met! (We have met.)

If the event referred to is a real possibility, a present verb form is possible.

Suppose it starts raining, what'll we do?

Formal subjunctives

- Insisting, demanding, etc

After verbs such as demand, insist, suggest, require, which imply obligation, the subjunctive may be used in formal style. The subjunctive is the same verb form as the infinitive; there is no third person -s or past form.

They demanded that he leave at once.

The school Principal suggested that he be awarded a scholarship.

- Less formal usage

Less formally, should can be used, and colloquially no verb form change is made.

They demanded that he should leave.

They demanded that he left. (informal)

Formulaic subjunctives

These are fixed expressions all using the subjunctive. Typical expressions are:

Heaven help us!

Be that as it may ...

Come what may ...

GRAMMAR

Modals: present and future

Don't have to and must not

- Don't have to refers to an absence of obligation.
You don't have to work tomorrow.
- Must not refers to an obligation not to do something.
You must not leave the room before the end of the test.

Should and ought to

Should and ought to have the same meaning where used in the examples below.

- Expectation
This film should be really good. / This film ought to be really good.
- Recommendation
I think you should / ought to talk it over with your parents.
In writing, should (but not ought to) can be used to express a strong obligation politely.
Guests should vacate their rooms by midday.
- Criticism of an action
You shouldn't / oughtn't to eat so much late at night.
- Uncertainty
Should I leave these papers on your desk?*
- Should and verbs of thinking
Should is often used with verbs of thinking, to make an opinion less direct.
I should think that model would sell quite well.
- Should with be and adjectives describing chance
This group of adjectives includes odd, strange, funny (= odd) and the expression What a coincidence.
It's strange that you should be staying in the same hotel!
- Should after in case to emphasize unlikelihood
In case I should be out, this is my mobile number.
See Grammar 7 for similar uses in conditional sentences.

Could

- Could is used to express possibility or uncertainty.
This could be the house.
- Could is used with comparative adjectives to express possibility or impossibility.
The situation couldn't be worse.
It could be better.

LANGUAGE PRACTICE FOR ADVANCED

- Could is used to make suggestions.
We could go to that new restaurant opposite the cinema.
- Could is used to express unwillingness.

Can

- Can with be is used to make criticisms.
You can be really annoying, you know!
- Can is also used with be to refer to capability.

Must and can't

These refer to present time only. (See be bound to.) In expressing certainty, they are opposites.

- This must be our stop. (I'm sure it is.)*
- This can't be our stop. (I'm sure it isn't.)*

May and might

- May can be used to express although clauses.
She may be the boss, but that is no excuse for shouting like that.
See also Grammar 12 for emphasis.
- May / might as well
This describes the only thing left to do, something which the speaker is not enthusiastic about.
Nobody else is going to turn up now for the lesson, so you may as well go home.
- May and might both express possibility or uncertainty. May is often used in formal language.
The peace conference may find a solution to the problem.
- There is an idiomatic expression with try, using may for present reference, and might for past or present reference.
Try as I might, I could not pass my driving test.
(Although I tried hard, I could not pass my driving test.)

Shall

- Shall can be used in the first persons to emphasize something which the speaker feels is certain to happen or wants to happen.
I shall definitely give up smoking this year.
We shall win! (Shall is stressed in this sentence.)
- In the second and third persons, shall is now only used in very formal contexts, such as rules and regulations.
No player shall knowingly pick up or move the ball of another player.

Will

- Will can be used to express an assumption.
A: The phone's ringing. B: That'll be for me.
- Will / won't can be used emphatically to tell someone of the speaker's intention, or to forbid an action, in response to a will expression.
A: I'll take the money anyway, so there!
B: You won't!
A: I will!
Similarly I won't can mean I refuse, and I will can mean I insist.
A: I won't do it! B: Yes, you will!

Would

Would is often used in situations where a conditional sense is understood but not stated.

- Nobody would agree with that idea.* (if we asked them)
Life wouldn't be worth living without you. (if you weren't there)
I think Jim would be the best candidate. (if he was under consideration for the job)
Sue wouldn't do that, surely! (if she was in that situation)

Need and need to

- Need to is a modal auxiliary, and behaves like a normal verb.
Do you need to use the photocopier?
- Need is a modal auxiliary, but mainly in question and negative forms.
Need you make so much noise?
See Grammar 6 for need doing.

Dare

- Dare can be used in two ways. It can be an intransitive verb followed by infinitive with to.
I didn't dare to say anything.
- It can also be a modal auxiliary, mainly in questions and negatives.
She dare not refuse.      How dare you!

Related non-modal expressions

- Had better
This is a recommendation and refers only to the present or future.
You'd better not phone her again.
It can be reported in the past without change of form.
He told me we'd better come back another day.
- Be bound to
This makes a future prediction of certainty.
It's bound to rain tomorrow.

GRAMMAR

Modals: past

Had to and didn't have to

Had to is the past form of must and refers to a past obligation.

Sorry I'm late, I had to post some letters.

The negative form is didn't have to and refers to an absence of obligation.

Should have and ought to have

- Expectation

Should have and ought to have can refer to something which was supposed to happen.

The parcel I sent you should have / ought to have arrived by now.

- Criticism of an action

You shouldn't have / oughtn't to have eaten so much last night.

- Should have and verbs of thinking

I should have thought that ... is a way of describing what was supposed or expected to happen.

I should have thought that you would know the answer / that you knew the answer.

It implies that in fact you didn't know the answer, and I am surprised or disappointed.

- With be and adjectives describing chance

It was strange that you should have been staying in the same hotel last year.

- As a polite expression of thanks on receiving a gift or a favour

I've done the washing up for you. – Oh, you really shouldn't have!

Could have and couldn't have

- Could have refers to past possibility or uncertainty.

David could have won the race if he had tried. (possibility / ability)

It could have been Sue, I suppose. (uncertainty)

- Couldn't have can be used with comparative adjectives.

We couldn't have been happier in those days.

- Could have can also express unwillingness.

She could have gone to the party with her friends. (but she didn't)

Could

- Could refers to past permission or past ability.

When I was sixteen I could stay out till 11.00. (I was allowed to)

Jenny could swim when she was three. (she actually did)

Compare: Jenny could have swum when she was three. (but she didn't)

May have and might have

- Might have refers to past possibility which did not happen.
You might have drowned!
- Might have and may have express uncertainty.
I suppose I may have been rather critical.
- Both can be used in the negative to express uncertainty.
They might not have received our letter yet.
- Might have is used to express annoyance at someone's failure to do something.
You might have told me my trousers were split!
- I might have known + would is an idiom by which the speaker expresses ironically that an action was typical of someone else.
I might have known that he would be late.

Must have and can't have

- These express the speaker's certainty about a past action.
Someone must have taken it. (I am sure they did)
You can't have lost it. (I am sure you didn't)
- Both can also be used with surely in exclamations.
Surely you can't have eaten all of it!
Surely you must have noticed it!

Would not

- This expresses an unwillingness in the past.
Everyone was angry because Sam wouldn't turn off the television.

Would have

- Would have can refer to events in the past which did not actually happen.
I would have accepted the job, but I didn't want to move house.
- Assumptions about the past are also possible with would have.
A: Someone called after you left but didn't leave a message.
B: That would have been Cathy, probably.

Needn't have and didn't need to

Needn't have done refers to an unnecessary action which was actually done.

You needn't have paid all at once. (you did pay)

Didn't need to refers to an unnecessary action which was not done.

I didn't need to go to the dentist again, luckily.

Adverbs and modals

Adverbs such as easily, just, really, well, are often used to emphasize modal expressions, in both present and past time.

You could easily have been killed.

I might just take you up on that.

You couldn't really have managed without me.

Basically, it (2) ..... taking two months off, and I'm not sure whether I (3) ..... a job when I came back. I really like my job at the hospital here, so I decided to play it safe. Maybe I (4) ..... from the job and hoped for the best. After all, perhaps I (5) ..... a really great job out there, or met the man of my dreams! Do you think I did the right thing? I kept changing my mind right up to the last minute. Bill and Sue in Sydney (6) ..... I was really annoying. I thought they'd never speak to me again, but I (7) ..... I got a call from them last week, and they were very sympathetic.

Paula told me you've decided to go back to university to study law – that (8) ..... an easy decision! You (9) ..... the world's coolest-looking lawyer! So no more working in the insurance company? I (10) ..... you'd find it a bit dull! Good for you.

Keep in touch,
Love, Tina

Inversion

Inversion

The term inversion covers two different grammatical operations:

- Using a question form of the main verb
Not only did he fail to report the accident, but he also later denied that he had been driving the car.
*Never have I enjoyed myself more!
- Changing the normal positions of verb and subject
*Along the street came a strange procession.
See Grammar 12 for an explanation of this example.

Inversion after negative adverbials

- This only occurs when the adverbial occurs at the beginning of a clause. All the examples below are used in formal language, such as in political speeches, usually for rhetorical effect. They are not usual in everyday spoken language.
Never have I heard a weaker excuse! (formal, for rhetorical effect)
I have never heard a weaker excuse! (less formal, everyday language)
- Time expressions: never, rarely, seldom
These are most commonly used with the present perfect or past perfect, or with modals such as can and could. Sentences of this type often contain comparatives.
Rarely can a minister have been faced with such a problem.*
Seldom has the team given a worse performance.*
Rarely had I had so much responsibility.*
- Time expressions: hardly, barely, scarcely, no sooner
These refer to an event which quickly follows another in the past. They are usually used with the past perfect, although no sooner can be followed by the past simple. Note the words used in the contrasting clause.
Hardly had the train left the station, when there was an explosion.*
Scarcely had I entered the room when the phone rang.*
No sooner had I reached the door than I realized it was locked.*
No sooner was the team back on the pitch than it started raining.*
- After only
Only combines with other time expressions and is usually used with the past simple.
Only after posting the letter did I remember that I had forgotten to put on a stamp.*
Other examples are only if / when, only then, only later.
Note that when only refers to 'the state of being the only one', there is no inversion following it.
Only Mary realized that the door was not locked.

- Phrases containing no / not

These include under no circumstances, on no account, at no time, in no way, on no condition, not until, not only ... (but also).

On no condition are they to open fire without a warning.

Not until I got home did I notice that I had the wrong umbrella.

- Little

Little also has a negative or restrictive meaning.

Little does the government appreciate what the results will be.

Inversion after so / such with that

- Inversion can be used with so and adjectives when the main verb is be. It is used for emphasis and is more common than the example with such.

So devastating were the floods that some areas may never recover.

- Such used with be means 'so much / so great'.

Such was the force of the storm that trees were uprooted.

- Inversion only occurs if so / such is the first word in the clause.

Inverted conditional sentences without if

- Conditional sentences with were, had and should can be inverted, and if is then dropped. This makes the sentences more formal and makes the event less likely.

If they were to escape, there would be an outcry.

Were they to escape, there would be an outcry.

If you should hear anything, let me know.

Should you hear anything, let me know.

If I had known, I would have protested strongly.

Had I known, I would have protested strongly.

- Inversion after as

This is more common in formal or written language.

We were short of money, as were most people in our neighbourhood.

I thought, as did my colleagues, that the recession would soon be over.

- Inversion after so, neither and nor

These are used in 'echoing' statements, agreeing or disagreeing.

A: I am going home. B: So am I.

A: I don't like meat. B: Neither do I.

See Grammar 12 for ways of giving emphasis without inverting after so.

Emphasis

Changing word order to change focus

- Passive

Passive constructions vary the way information is given in a sentence, putting more emphasis on what comes first. See Grammar 5 and 6.

All roads to the north have been blocked by snow.

- Fronting and inversion

Inversion here refers to changing the normal word order in the sentence so that a prepositional phrase is emphasized before the verb. This also involves putting the verb before the subject.

Suddenly, down came the rain!

Up in the air went the balloon.*

Fronting involves changing the order of clauses in a sentence and putting first for emphasis a clause that would usually not be first.

I don't know where the money is coming from.

Where the money is coming from, I don't know.

Time phrases can vary in position, and are often put first because the time reference is important.

At six o'clock Monica decided to phone the police.*

There is a type of may clause introduced by although which can be inverted. It is a highly formal expression.

Although it may seem / be difficult, it is not impossible.

Difficult as it may seem, it is not impossible.

Difficult though it may be, it is not impossible.

- Cleft and pseudo cleft sentences

These are sentences introduced by it is / it was or by a clause beginning what.

Different parts of the sentence can be emphasized in this way. In speech, stress and intonation also identify the emphasis.

With it is / was

Sue borrowed my bike last night.

It was Sue who borrowed my bike.*

It was last night that Sue borrowed my bike.*

It was my bike that Sue borrowed.*

Sentences with because are also possible.

It was because I felt ill that I left.*

Modal auxiliaries are also possible.

You can't have read the same book.

It can't have been the same book that you read.*

LANGUAGE PRACTICE FOR ADVANCED

With what clauses

These are common with verbs such as need, want, like, hate.

I hate rainy weather.

What I hate is rainy weather.

You need a holiday.

What you need is a holiday.

It is also possible to emphasize events, using auxiliary do / did.

What Peter did was (to) leave the windows unlocked.

They are destroying the environment.

What they are doing is destroying the environment.

- Clauses beginning all emphasize 'the only thing'.

I only need another €15.

All I need is another €15.

Adding words for emphasis

- Own

This intensifies possessive adjectives.

It was my own idea.

- Very and indeed

Very can be used emphatically to mean 'exactly/precisely'.

At the very same moment, the telephone rang.

Very ... indeed is another way of intensifying adjectives.

It was very cold indeed.

- Emphasizing negatives

Ways of emphasizing not include: at all, in the least, really.

It was not at all cold.

It was not cold at all.

In the least / slightest usually adds bit if used before an adjective.

I wasn't interested in the slightest.

I wasn't the least bit interested.

No and none can be emphasized by at all and whatsoever.

- The

The can emphasize uniqueness. It is heavily stressed in speech.

Surely you are not the David Beckham, are you?

- Question words ending in -ever

These add an air of disbelief to the question.

Whatever are you doing?

Whoever told you that?

- Auxiliary do

This can emphasize the verb, and is stressed in speech.

I do like this film! It's really great!

It is also used in polite forms.

I do hope you'll come again! Do sit down!

- Adverbs and adjectives

A large number of adverbs and adjectives are used to add emphasis.

Common examples are:

I actually went inside one of the Pyramids.

It is by no means certain that the match will take place.

Some people were even wearing two pullovers, it was so cold.

Her performance was sheer magic!

This book is utter nonsense!

The following examples are only possible with adjectives which express an absolute opinion (non-gradeable adjectives).

It was absolutely fantastic!

The third exam question was quite (completely) impossible.

This guide book is utterly useless.

You were simply wonderful!

Don't cook the meat any more. It's just right!

- Echoing phrases with so

These express agreement.

A: This is the book you are looking for.

B: So it is!

Other means

- Time phrases

Common examples are day after day; time and time again; over and over again; day in, day out.

*David reads the same books over and over again!

- Repetition of main verb

I tried and tried, but it was no use.

- In the repetition of a phrase with a possessive, it is possible to omit the first mention of the noun and use a possessive pronoun.

Their marriage was a successful marriage.*

Theirs was a successful marriage.*

GRAMMAR

Reported speech

Problems

This unit assumes that the basic rules for forming reported speech are already known.

- The most important rule is to use verb forms that are natural in the situation.

'I'm happy to help you,' she said.

She told me she is happy to help us.

In the above example, the verb has not been put one stage back in the past. This emphasizes the fact that the person is still happy now.

In the following example, it is unnecessary to put the reported speech one stage back in the past if the time sequence is clear. This is common in everyday speech.

'I wanted to go to the cinema, but John wasn't so keen,' said Sue.

Sue said that she wanted to go to the cinema, but John wasn't so keen.

- Reported speech with modal auxiliaries

If the reporting verb is in a past verb form, modals change where there is a 'past' equivalent.

will - would      can - could      may - might

Could, would and might do not change.

'I might be late.'

She said (that) she might be late.

Should usually remains unchanged.

'You should rest.'      They said (that) I should rest.

However, when should is used as a first person form of would, it changes to would in reported speech.

'I should love to come.'      She said (that) she would love to come.

Must can either be reported as had to or remain as must.

'You must be there at 6.00.'      They said I must be there at 6.00.

They said I had to be there at 6.00.

- Reported speech with conditional sentences

After a past tense reporting verb, the verb form changes when it refers to a real situation.

'If we leave now, we'll catch the train.'

I told him that if we left then, we'd catch the train.

'If you don't hurry, you'll be late.'      I told her that if she didn't hurry she'd be late.

In reported hypothetical situations, verb form changes are not made if the sentence refers to a possible future.

'If you came back tomorrow, I'd be able to help you.'

She said that if I came back the next day, she'd be able to help me.

If the event is clearly hypothetical and impossible, time changes are made.

'If I had a spanner, I could fix it.'

He said that if he had had a spanner he could have fixed it.

LANGUAGE PRACTICE FOR ADVANCED

In hypothetical past conditional sentences, verb form changes are not made.

'If she hadn't helped me, I wouldn't have succeeded.'

He said that if she hadn't helped him, he wouldn't have succeeded.

● Don't think

Statements reported with verbs of thinking such as think, expect, suppose usually transfer the negative from the statement to the reporting verb.

I don't think it'll rain. (This means I think it won't rain.)

I don't suppose she'll come. (This means I suppose she won't come.)

Reporting verbs

There are numerous reporting verbs which are used to report the words of others or our own words and thoughts. Only a selection of the most useful categories is given here. Other examples are included in the activities. It is advisable to use a dictionary to check on how different reporting verbs are used. See Grammar 16 for infinitives or -ing forms following verbs, and Grammar 17 for prepositions.

● Verbs followed by that + clause (with * can be followed by a person)

add	confirm	feel	predict	say
admit	consider	hope	*promise	state
agree	decide	imply	*reassure	suggest
announce	deny	insist	reckon	suppose
argue	doubt	mean	remark	*tell
believe	estimate	mention	repeat	think
claim	*expect	object	reply	*threaten
complain	explain	*persuade	report	*warn

● Verbs followed by person + to

advise	forbid	invite	persuade	tell
ask	instruct	order	remind	warn

● Verbs followed by subjunctive or should

Most of these verbs can also be used in the other ways given.

As these verbs contain the sense that someone 'should do' something, should can follow them.

They suggested that she should apply again.

More formally, the subjunctive can be used instead of should. This is formed from the base of the verb (without third person s).

They suggested that she apply again.

We propose that you leave / should leave your position at the end of the year.

She recommended that they stay / should stay in the Grand Hotel.

Some other verbs of this type are:

advise (also: someone to do / against something)

agree (also: to do something, that + clause)

demand (also: to do something)

insist (also: on someone doing something) prefer (also: someone to do something)

propose (also: doing something) recommend (also: doing something) request (also: someone to do something) suggest (also: that + clause)

urge (also: someone to do something)

- Verbs which can be followed by that + clause containing would decide, expect, hope, promise, threaten

All these verbs report statements containing will. These verbs can also be followed by an infinitive with to.

I'll leave at 8.00.

She decided to leave at 8.00.

She decided (that) she would leave at 8.00.

'I'll come back later.'

He promised he would come back later.

Functions

- Many verbs describe a function, rather than reporting speech. Some examples are:

admit	complain	request	suggest
advise	invite	remind	warn
agree	persuade	threaten

'Look, if I were you I'd leave early,' she said.

She advised me to leave early.

'If you don't leave, we'll call the police,' they said.

They threatened to call the police.

'Why don't you come to lunch?' we said.

We invited her to lunch.

- Some verbs describe actions. Some examples are:

accept, congratulate, decide, greet, interrupt, introduce

'Hi, Dave, how are you?' he said. He greeted me.

'Thank you very much for your invitation. I'd love to come,' she said.

She accepted our invitation.

Changes of viewpoint

Changes of time, place and person reference are assumed known at this level. In reported speech, there is no longer a clear reference which can be understood by two people in the same place.

I left the parcel on this chair.

In reported speech one would have to specify which chair:

He said he had left the parcel on the chair by the window.

Or the reference may be replaced by a more general one:

I love this town.

LANGUAGE PRACTICE FOR ADVANCED

1 Underline the correct word or phrase in each sentence.

- 1 The government spokesperson denied / refused that there was a crisis.

THREATENED

The teacher ..... the children's behaviour improved.

9 'OK Mum, I'll do my homework, I promise,' said Laura.

THAT

Laura ..... do her homework.

10 'Congratulations on getting engaged, Sue,' said Harry.

CONGRATULATED

Harry ..... engagement.

4 Underline the best word to complete each sentence.

- 1 I thought Jim would say something about his new job. But he didn't mention / state / declare it.
- 2 Sorry, I wasn't being insulting. I simply offered / reassured / remarked that you seem to have put on rather a lot of weight recently.
- 3 The police requested / estimated / advised that the crowd was under 50 000, although the organizers of the march put it at nearer 100 000.
- 4 The children complained / threatened / persuaded that their parents were always checking up on them.
- 5 It has been objected / hoped / predicted that by the year 2050 some capital cities will be almost uninhabitable because of the effects of air pollution.
- 6 During the months before Smith's transfer from City, it had been rumoured / doubted / threatened that he and the manager had come to blows in the dressing-room, though this was denied by the club.
- 7 Brown forbade / recommended / claimed that the arresting officers had treated him roughly, and that one of them had punched him in the eye.
- 8 An army spokesman stressed that all troops patrolling the streets had been denied / ordered / announced to issue clear warnings before firing any shots.
- 9 Although he didn't say so directly, the prime minister told / ordered / suggested that an agreement between the two sides was within reach.
- 10 The witness suggested / insisted / gave her name and address to the court before the cross-examination began.

5 Complete the text, using one word in each gap.

The case of the break-in at a Cambridge college entered its third day today. The accused's defence was based on the fact that he (1) ...could..... not have entered the building at 6.30. He claimed (2) ..... have been playing football at the time, and stated that several witnesses could confirm this. At this point, the prosecution (3) ..... him of changing his story, as he had previously stated that he had been at home at the (4) ..... of the break-in. The defendant agreed that his memory (5) ..... not in the best of shape, as he had been (6) ..... from bouts of depression. The judge stepped in, reminding the defendant that he (7) ..... taken an oath to tell the truth; and warning (8) ..... of the severe consequences of lying in court. The defendant then said that he had simply forgotten (9) ..... the football match, and insisted (10) ..... he was not changing his story.

6 Complete the second sentence as a report of the first sentence.

Articles

Definite article

This unit assumes that the basic rules for the uses of articles are already known.

● Classes

This is one way to refer to classes, and is perhaps more formal than using a plural:

The tiger is threatened with extinction.

● National groups

Groups as a whole:

The French eat in restaurants more than the English.

Single examples are not formed in the same way:

a Frenchman / woman, an Englishman / woman

● Other groups

If these are clearly plural:

the Social Democrats, the Rolling Stones

● Unique objects

the moon, the sun

Note that there are other suns and moons in the universe.

This planet has a small moon.

● Titles

These tend to be 'unique':

the director of studies

If the title is post-modified (has a description coming after the noun), the is more likely, but not essential. Compare:

She became president in 2008.

She became (the) president of the country in 2008.

● Other titles

Newspapers: The Independent, The Sunday Times

● Musical instruments

Jane plays the flute. (in general)

The guitar is my favourite instrument. (in general)

It is, of course, still possible to use an indefinite article when we refer to an object.

There was a small brown flute in the window of the shop.

● Emphatic use

The article is heavily stressed and emphasizes the following noun.

This hotel is the place to stay.

See also Grammar 12.

● Geographical names

The following use the:

Rivers: the Thames

Mountain ranges: the Alps

Oceans: the Mediterranean

Unique features: the Channel, the Arctic

Compass points / areas: the East, the Middle East

Countries: collective or plural: The United Kingdom, The Netherlands

This does not apply to:

Mountain peaks: Everest (but The Matterhorn)

Lakes: Lake Geneva

Continents: Asia

Countries: France

The definite article is sometimes used before Lebanon and Gambia:

The Lebanon      The Gambia

● Place names

Post-modification, especially with ... of ... plays a role in place names.

Compare:

Leeds University / The University of Leeds

London Bridge / The Tower of London

Canvey Island / The Isle of Man

If the first part of a place-name is another name, then we do not use an article.

Brown's Restaurant

The Garden House Hotel

● Most (of) and the most

When most refers to the largest part of something, it has no article in front.

Most delegates / most of the delegates, more than 75% in fact, were in favour of the proposal.

When most refers to the largest number or amount compared to all the other people or things, it can be used with an article.

Paula Thompson received (the) most votes.

● Importance of context

The definite article is used to refer to already mentioned items, and so its use depends on context.

The Smiths had a son and a daughter. The son was in the Army and the daughter was training to be a doctor.

The first week of our holiday was awful. On the Saturday, there was a terrible storm.

Here, the Saturday refers to a day in a period of time already mentioned.

On the Saturday of that week ...

Indefinite article

● Jobs

Compare: Tony is a builder. Tony was the builder of that house.

● In measuring

Three times a week. Fifty kilometres an hour.

£3.50 a kilo                      £15 000 a year

Formally, per can replace a / an.

She was convicted of driving at more than 120 kilometres per hour.

● Unknown people

Use of a / an emphasizes that a person is unknown.

A Mr Jones called while you were out.

Zero article

● Names

Compare:

Matthew Smith is one of my favourite artists. (a person)

A Matthew Smith hangs in their bedroom. (a painting by Matthew Smith)

● Some unique organizations do not use the.

Parliament, but The (House of) Commons

● Streets

Most streets do not use an article.

Green Road                      Godwin Street

Common exceptions are:

The High Street                      The Strand

and street names without preceding adjectives. Compare:

Holly Drive                      The Drive

Translation problems

Study these sentences. Would you use an article in your language?

I'd like a pound and a half of cheese.

I was holding it in my hand.

It's a film about homeless people.

Alex has flu.

6 There are ten incorrect uses of the in the following text. Underline them.

Word processing and the calculator are without a shadow of doubt here to stay, and in the many respects our lives are the much richer for them. But the teachers and other academics are claiming that we are now starting to feel the first significant wave of their effects on a generation of the users. It seems nobody under the age of 20 can spell or add up any more. Even several professors at leading universities have commented on the detrimental effect the digital revolution has had on the most intelligent young minds in the country. At the root of one part of the problem, evidently, lies the automatic spellcheck now widely available on the word processing software. Professor John Silver of the Sydney University, Australia, said: 'Why should we bother to learn how to spell correctly, or for that matter to learn even the most basic of the mathematical sums, when at the press of a button we have our problem answered for us? The implications are enormous. Will the adults of the future look to the computer to make the decisions for them, to tell them who to marry or what kind of the house to buy? Are we heading for a future individual incapable of the independent human thought?'

Defining and non-defining clauses

● Defining

A defining clause specifies which person or thing we mean. It cannot be separated from the person or thing it describes.

*By 4.30, there was only one painting which hadn't been sold.

*Beth is the only person here who owns a dog.

● Non-defining

A non-defining clause contains extra information. In writing it is separated by commas, and in speech, if used at all, it is usually indicated by intonation.

By 4.30, which was almost closing time, nearly all the paintings had been sold.

Beth, who already owns a dog, said she couldn't look after another one.

Some of the points given below depend on the type of clause.

Which, who and that

● These are alternatives in a defining clause, although which is felt to be more formal.

*By 4.30, there was only one painting that hadn't been sold.

● That is not normally used to introduce a non-defining clause.

The train, which was already an hour late, broke down again.

● That cannot follow a preposition.

It was a service for which I will be eternally grateful.

● That is often used instead of who in everyday speech in defining clauses.

Do you know the girl that lives next door?

*Beth is the only person here that owns a dog.

Who and whom

● Whom is the object form of who and is used formally in object clauses.

He was a person whom everyone regarded as trustworthy.

However, this is now felt to be excessively formal by most speakers and who or that are commonly used instead.

He was a person who everyone regarded as trustworthy.

● Whom has to be used if it follows a preposition.

He was someone for whom I felt great respect.

To whom am I speaking?*

However, in everyday use, it is usual to avoid this kind of construction.

He was someone who I felt great respect for.

Who am I speaking to?*

(See Sentences ending in a preposition below.)

Whose

This means 'of whom'. It is used in both defining and non-defining clauses.

Several guests, whose cars were parked outside, were waiting at the door.

Several guests whose rooms had been broken into complained to the manager.

When and where

● Non-defining

When and where follow a specific time or place in a non-defining clause.

Come back at 3.30, when I won't be so busy.

I stopped in Maidstone, where my sister owns a shop.

● Defining

When follows words such as time, day, moment.

There is hardly a moment when I don't think of you, Sophia.

Where follows words such as place, house, street.

This is the street where I live.

Omitting the relative pronoun

This is common in defining object clauses especially in everyday conversation.

I've found the keys (which / that) I've been looking for.

That's the man (who / that) I was telling you about.

He was a person (who / that) everyone regarded as trustworthy.

Sentences ending in a preposition or phrasal verb

Another common feature of conversational English, as outlined in who and whom above, is to end a defining clause with a preposition.

That's the house I used to live in.

I couldn't remember which station to get off at.

He's not someone who I really get on with.

Omitting which / who + be

In a defining clause it may be possible to reduce a verb phrase after who / which to an adjectival phrase, especially to define phrases such as the only one, the last / first one.

Jim was the only one of his platoon who had not been taken prisoner.

Jim was the only one of his platoon not taken prisoner.

By 4.30, there was only one painting which had not been sold.

By 4.30, there was only one painting not sold.

Which

A non-defining clause can comment on the whole situation described in the main clause.

There was nobody left on the train, which made me suspicious.

We got there at 9.00, which meant we missed the start of the film.

Phrases with which, such as, at which time / point, in which case, by which time, in which event can be used in the same way.

I watched the play until the end of the first act, at which point I felt I had seen enough.

A warning sign 'Overheat' may come on, in which case turn off the appliance at once.

We stayed there until after twelve, by which time it was raining hard.

Clauses beginning with what and *whatever

- What (meaning 'the thing' or 'things which') can be used to start a clause.

I can't believe what you told me yesterday.

What I'd like is a nice cold drink.*

What you should do is write a letter to the manager.*

See Grammar 12 for emphasis.

- Whatever, whoever, whichever can be used in a similar way.

You can rely on Helen to do whatever she can.

Please take whichever one you prefer.

Whoever arrives first can turn on the heating.*

Non-finite clauses containing an -ing form

These are clauses without a main verb. The examples given here are non-defining. Note that the two clauses have the same subject.

- Actions happening at the same time

Waving their scarves and shouting, the fans ran onto the pitch.*

- One action happening before another

Opening the letter, she found that it contained a cheque for £1000.*

Picking up the car keys, she ran from the room.*

This type of clause often explains the reason for something happening.

Realizing there was no one at home, I left the parcel in the shed.*

Finding the door open, I went in.*

Both these types of sentence might begin with on or upon:

Upon opening the letter ... On picking up ... Upon realizing ... On finding ...

- An event which is the result of another event

I didn't get wet, having remembered to take my umbrella.

- Where a passive construction might be expected, this is often shortened to a past participle.

Having been abandoned by his colleagues, the minister was forced to resign.*

Abandoned by his colleagues, the minister was forced to resign.*

1 In ten places in the text, which or that is used incorrectly. Underline each one.

Having just spent three weeks of my life running round England for charity, I am in no fit state that to do anything except sit and write about my experiences, which suits me fine. In total I ran more than 400 kilometres, including some extremely hilly routes, and the thought of putting on my running shoes again which is not one that I can face for a good few months yet. The journey, which I undertook with the assistance of a friend who followed the same route by car, which was done in aid of a charity – Oxfam, a cause which I support whenever that I can. Having organized my sponsorship, which I planned my route, designed to give me about 30 kilometres' running a day. My intention which was to try and rest one day every week, but after three days in which I pushed myself a bit too hard, considering the conditions, that I changed my plan and rested after every two days. Most of the time which I was able to keep to about 30 kilometres a day, which is manageable for someone of my age and fitness. I did have a few bad days, though, one of which I spent travelling in the car because one of my feet which was really painful. Still, when you run long distances, that it's the kind of thing you come to expect. I am pleased to say that in the end I managed to raise over £3000 for Oxfam.

Verbs + infinitive or -ing

This unit focuses on problem areas.

Verbs followed by either -ing or infinitive with to

- Can't bear, hate, like, love, prefer

Like to usually refers to habitual preferences.

We like to go out to lunch on Sunday.

Not like to means 'think it is wrong to'.

I don't like to disturb colleagues at home.

- Attempt, begin, continue, intend, plan, propose, start

There is no difference in meaning whether we use -ing or infinitive with to.

Suddenly it began raining. Suddenly it began to rain.

Intend, plan and propose can be followed by that + clause. This may include should.

See Grammar 13 for reporting verbs.

- Forget, remember

With to both verbs refer to an obligation.

I had to phone the office but I forgot to do it.

Please remember to turn off the lights when you leave.

With -ing both verbs refer to past events. Forget + -ing is uncommon.

I don't remember learning to walk.

Have you forgotten writing the application?

Both can be followed by that + clause.

I didn't remember that I had to phone the office.

Have you forgotten that you wrote the application?

- Try

With to this refers to something attempted, which might fail or succeed.

I tried to warn him, but it was too late.

We tried to contact her three times, but there was no reply.

With -ing this refers to making an experiment, or to a new experience.

Try taking an aspirin. You'll feel better.

Have you tried windsurfing? It's great!

- Go on

With -ing this refers to the continuing of an action.

She went on working even though it was late.

You can't go on working such long hours without risking your health.

With to this refers to what happened next.

The prime minister went on to praise the chancellor.

Jim went on to become managing director of the company.

● Mean

With the meaning intend, this is followed by to.

Sorry, I meant to tell you about the party.

Did you mean to write this sentence, or was it a mistake?

With -ing it refers to what is involved.

If we catch the early train, it will mean getting up at 6.00.

Being tolerant means accepting people as they are.

That + clause is possible when meaning is being explained.

Catching the early train means that we will have to get up at 6.00.

Being tolerant means that you accept people as they are.

● Regret

With to this refers to the speaker's regrets about what is going to be said. It often occurs in formal statements like the following:

We regret to inform you that your application has been unsuccessful.

With -ing it refers to a regret about the past.

I regret saying that to him.

It seemed the right thing at the time, but now I regret resigning.

That + clause is also possible.

I regret that I said that to him.

It seemed the right thing at the time, but now I regret that I resigned.

● Stop

With to this refers to an intention.

Jane stopped to check the oil level in the engine.

With -ing it refers to the ending of an activity.

The baby has stopped waking up during the night now.

● Hear, see, watch

When followed by infinitive without to, the action is complete.

We watched all the cars cross the finishing line.

I saw the car crash into the tree.

With -ing, the action is still in progress.

I heard someone coming up the stairs.

I saw her working in the garden.

Verbs with an object, followed by either -ing or infinitive with *to

● Allow, forbid, permit

With an object and to:

The school forbids students to smoke in the classrooms.

With an object -ing form:

The school does not allow / forbid / permit smoking.

● Consider

With an object and to this refers to an opinion.

People considered her to be the finest pianist of her generation.

Passive use is also possible.

What is considered to be a good score in the test?

LANGUAGE PRACTICE FOR ADVANCED

With -ing this means 'think about'.

At one point I considered emigrating to Canada.

With that + clause it refers to an opinion.

We consider that she has behaved badly.

● Imagine

With an object and to:

I imagined the castle to be haunted.

With -ing, an object is also possible.

Telesales Tantrum

Telesales have become the bane of my life. Recently I have been so inundated with them that I now refuse to answer the phone between 6 and 9 in the evenings. Friends and relatives understand, and don't bother calling at these times. Last week I was almost (1) ..... taking out a contract with a different phone company, before I realized what I was doing and slammed the phone down. If it's not advisers promising to (2) ..... out your finances for you, or persuading you to (3) ..... life insurance, it will usually be home improvement companies. My advice is, don't be taken (4) ..... by the friendly chat at the beginning of the conversation. You can (5) ..... all their charming chit chat with ease – all they really want is your custom and your money. So (6) ..... them, and, preferably politely, just say 'no'.

Interviewer: The recent scandal involving your finance minister has done little to restore public confidence in the government.

Minister: (1) ..... , I think the 'scandal', as you call it, has shown us to be a very moral party. The minister concerned resigned from his post and showed great contrition for what he'd done.

Interviewer: (2) ..... , a scandal is a scandal. (3) ..... , a senior minister accepts a large donation on behalf of his party from the entrepreneur Robert Tivwell. Then, five weeks later, Tivwell's company, which (4) ..... just happens to be nearly bankrupt, wins a contract with the government worth millions of pounds.

Minister: Well, as I say, the minister has resigned, (5) ..... I should point out that there is technically nothing illegal about what he did.

Interviewer: Yes, there is, minister. It's called bribery.

Minister: Well, you can call it that if you want. I prefer to call it 'sharp practice' (6) ..... . But it happens, it's always happened, and I'm sure it'll continue to happen. (7) ..... , we will not condone this kind of financial dealing and will continue to stamp down on it.

Interviewer: This is pure double talk!

Minister: No, that's not true. (8) ..... we take such matters extremely seriously. But we are realistic enough to know that we can't eliminate them altogether. You see, there is nothing to stop people or companies making donations to parties - (9) ..... if we didn't have such money, we wouldn't be able to survive. It's just that the timing of such payments can be unfortunate. So each case has to be investigated on its merits. But (10) ..... , this practice is causing less controversy than it has done under previous governments.

Starting your own business could be the way to achieving financial independence. (1)..... it could just as well land you in debt for the rest of your life. (2) ....., that is the view of Charles and Brenda Leggat, a Scottish couple, who last week saw their fish farm business put into the hands of the receiver. 'We started the business at a time when everyone was being encouraged by the banks to borrow money. (3) ....., we fell into the same trap, and asked for a big loan. (4) ....., at the time we were sure that we could make it into a going concern,' said Charles Leggat, a farmer from the Highlands. 'The bank analysed the proposals we put forward and they agreed that it would be a highly profitable business.' Sure enough, within five years the Leggats were exporting trout and salmon products to hotels all over Europe, and (5) ....., they took on over fifty staff. (6) ....., with the advent of the recession, they began to lose ground as orders dried up. (7) ....., ' said Brenda Leggat, 'the business has now been valued by the bank at a fraction of its true worth. If they had left us to work our way out of our difficulties, (8) ..... virtually bankrupting us, I am sure that we could have gone back into profit. As it is, we have been left without a livelihood, and the bank has not recovered what it lent us.' The Leggats both felt that their bank had not treated them fairly. (9) ....., they were falling over themselves to lend us the money initially, (10) ..... now they are doing very little to keep the business going, and fifty local people in work.' A spokesman for the bank concerned refused to comment.

Punctuation

● Commas

Commas are used to separate items in lists (it is optional whether a comma is used before the final item in a list when and or or is also used), before question tags, to separate clauses, and after and around certain linking words. See Grammar 22.

I've been to Dallas, New Orleans, Kansas(,) and Tampa Bay.

Sue is a lovely girl, isn't she?

If you see Kevin, tell him his photocopies are ready.

Broadly speaking, I agree with what you are saying.

I do not, however, agree with your last point.

Note that commas are not used between a subject and its verb, or in defining relative clauses.

The lady standing over there at the bus stop is my next-door neighbour.

● Apostrophes

Apostrophes are used to indicate letters omitted, possession and plurals of letters and figures.

Letters omitted: It's warm today.

Possession: Jack's car, the people's decision, the players' entrance

But note that the possessive its does not have an apostrophe:

The dog sat in the corner licking its paws.

Plurals of single letters or figures: There are two l's in 'specially'. Are these 7's or 3's?

Note that many people regard this use as incorrect and prefer to use inverted commas: Are these '7's or '3's?

● Colons and semi-colons

Colons introduce examples, lists, and statements which give further detail about a general statement.

There were two possible courses of action: borrowing from the bank, or asking for more time to find the money elsewhere.

Semi-colons divide parts of long sentences or long phrases in a list; it is usually possible to divide one sentence into shorter ones, so that semi-colons are unnecessary.

There were two possible courses of action open to him. After some thought, he decided to ...

Text 1

I've been to the following Italian cities Rome Florence Genoa and Pisa. I thought Rome was incredible the food was great the views were fantastic and I will never forget the vivacious people. The Italians legendary hospitality was nowhere more evident than in the capital city. But my all-time favourite is probably Genoa with its fabulous hill-top houses and its dusty mountains reverberating to the sound of grasshoppers. I spent many a happy hour looking down on the seething city below and the sea beyond. Best of all the city's location at the heart of the Italian Riviera meant that fabulous resorts like Portofino and Camogli were only a train ride away.

Text 2

Water is becoming a more and more precious commodity so save as much as you can. Flushing the toilet accounts for a third of all household water use so don't flush wastefully. If you are only getting rid of a tissue for example resist the habit of reaching for the handle or chain. Take a shower rather than a bath it uses about a third of the water. And don't keep the water running all the time when you wash or clean your teeth. If you have a garden try to find ways of saving water outside such as using a water butt to collect rain water rather than using a hosepipe to water your flowers. A simple pipe connecting external gutters to a water butt can save an awful lot of water.

2 Complete the sentences in each pair, using two words with the same sound but different spelling.

- 1 I cannot .....bear..... to see any animal suffering.

It is an accepted part of everyday nostalgia to assume that, in the past, food was somehow better than it is today. The fruit and vegetables were more naturally grown and this was not seen as an extra bonus which added ten per sent on to the price. Most food was fresh, not frozen, and you had the chance to examen it to see weather you wanted it. When you went shoping you could ask for exactly what peace of meat you wanted and see the butcher cutting it-instead of finding it ready-wrapped in plastic. And your local tradesman soon got to know what you wanted, and provided it for you, otherwise he would have gone out of businness. Of course, unless we invent time-travel we shall never know if this is really how things were!

Survivors from those distant days tend to dislike today's convenience foods, and to preffer the Good Old Days when a joint of beef filled the oven, produced thick red juce instead of water when cooked, and cost the same as a bus tickit. What is always forgotten is that then, as now, the quality of your food depended very much upon who you were, how well-off you happened to be, and where you lived. Buying food in those days demanded considerable skill, and you had to be able to tell the fresh from the not so fresh. Their was no sell-buy date to act as a guide. If you were hard up, then frozen meat and caned foods would have been on the menu, just as they are today

1 The common cold, as it is technically known, still resists, the efforts of science to control and cure it, and has given rise to a rich popular mythology. As the name suggests, the assumption is that you catch a cold, because you go out in the cold or get wet; as we now know that a cold is a virus, and that we actually catch it from being in

5 contact with others, this is not strictly true. Shaking hands with people, kissing them or just being in the same room, can pass on the virus. It is now generally believed that; cold viruses, and there is more than one type, are always present in the throat, but only become active, when the body's resistance to infection is lowered. The activated cold virus then attacks the membranes in the nose and throat, whose tissues become

10 weakened and thus susceptible to infection, by types of bacteria which are generally also present in the body.

Sudden chilling or getting soaked to the skin promote conditions, in nose and throat membranes that permit the cold virus to invade the body, although some individuals seem to be resistant to this. Just being, out in the cold is not enough, and studies 15 conducted in wartime among troops living in the open found that the incidence of colds, was no greater than normal. As far as prevention and cure are concerned; nearly everyone has their own favourite remedy. Doctors have been unable to produce an effective vaccine, against colds, although strong claims have been put forward for vitamin C.

6 Circle eight incorrect commas in this text.

- 1 A river in the west of England, made famous by the best-seller Tarka the Otter, has once again become safe for otters after ten years, of what had been thought a losing battle against pollution from chemicals. The River Torridge in North Devon was the setting for Henry Williamson's book, the success of which, has led
- 5 to the area calling itself Tarka Country, and becoming a popular tourist spot. Since 1927, when the book was written, the human population of the area has, however, increased three-fold, and increased use of pesticides and fertilizers led, to the river being declared 'dead' in the early nineteen eighties. Otters are shy creatures and the river provides them, with numerous places to hide along the river valleys.
- 10 But the fear was that they had been eliminated because of the clearing away of undergrowth and trees, and the effects of chemicals, on their breeding capabilities, not to mention otter hunting, though this has now ceased. However, a number of projects designed to cleanse the river area, seem to have borne fruit, despite a pessimistic announcement earlier this year. The Tarka Project, which includes
- 15 local councils and environmental groups, now says that the otter population is healthy, and thriving in North Devon. Signs of otter habitation have been found in a number of places, and more and more sightings of otters have been recorded. But the otter is by no means widespread, in other parts of the country.

- Tina: A fair bit – Korea mainly. You'd better to get yourself a Korean phrasebook!
- Martin: I've ever been to Korea once before, so I know a few words.
- Tina: Good. We have contacts with most of Asian countries in fact. Well, here's the office you'll be working in. As you can see, in this room has a photocopier, your computer ... by the way, are you familiar with PowerPoint?
- Martin: Well, to be perfectly honest, no. I've never really had needed it up to now.
- Tina: You really need to spend a few hours in studying this book, then, if you don't mind. I'm sure it will explain you how the system works.
- Martin: May I ask who that man was who was leaving the office when we came in?
- Tina: Oh that's Mike. I'm surprised he wasn't at your interview. He's probably the nicest one of the managers.
- Martin: He looks like very cheerful.
- Tina: As I say it, he's a very nice guy. He's my immediate boss. The only thing is, he does tend to make me to do more jobs than I can cope with. Still, he's letting me to go home early today, so I'm not complaining!
- Martin: And on to the subject of leaving, I didn't really understand what they were saying about this 'finish your task' system.
- Tina: Oh, well it's just one of the systems you can choose. Basically, it means that the sooner you do finish, the sooner you can go to home. But if you finish your task, say, three hours over normal time, you can come in three hours of late the next day.

What can the average family do to create a home environment which is eco-friendly? Well, (1) .....<sup>c</sup>....., bear in mind that (2) ..... half the average home's energy bill is spent on heating rooms, but (3) ..... a typical house loses nearly half its heat through the walls and roof. So (4) ..... number one priority is to ensure that your house is adequately insulated. Get advice (5) ..... double glazing and loft insulation. Have your heating system inspected, and you might be surprised at how much energy it is (6) ..... wasting. (7) ..... you may not be able to afford a replacement, you should (8) ..... consider lowering the temperature of the system. The next important point to consider is (9) ..... of household waste. Even if you are lucky enough to have a recycling rubbish collection, you can (10) ..... reuse things rather than putting them in the bin. The amount of packaging is an obvious (11) ..... . Try to reuse containers (12) ..... glass jars and plastic cartons instead of wrapping food in foil or cling-film. Take bottles to bottle banks, and only shop in supermarkets which use recyclable packaging. (13) ..... people are refusing to buy goods packed in plastic. The garden too is an area where waste can be recycled. Start a compost heap using food scraps and garden weeds (14) ..... putting them in the dustbin. And it is surprising (15) ..... can be done with some other things we throw away. For example, try papering your bedroom walls with pictures from magazines.

Can I add some comments to your debate about the quality of television programmes? Your readers (1) may find that some of my views reflect exactly their (2) ..... experience in this matter. First of all, I heartily agree with your reader Mrs Goldwood who wrote that she has become tired (3) ..... the same old diet of medical dramas, soaps and so-called 'reality' shows. Six months (4) ..... I concluded that enough was enough and decided, (5) ..... an experiment, to watch nothing at all (6) ..... the news, and that only for half an hour a day. I can assure Mrs Goldwood that she will not miss her regular evening of television. I have discovered that there are far (7) ..... interesting serials on the radio, and a wider choice of films available on the internet. I think that she will also find herself reading more, and at (8) ..... with books you can choose what kind of story you want to follow, (9) ..... of having to wait for something interesting to show up. I am sure that other readers can confirm that life (10) ..... The Box is richer and more rewarding.

Was I alone in detecting the note of superiority in the letter from Mr Hackett about (11) ..... up television? What a lot of fuss about nothing! Mr Hackett seems to think that if you have a television you have to look at it. Surely it is more a (12) ..... of choosing programmes carefully, and turning the TV off when there is nothing (13) ..... watching. Both he and Mrs Goldwood seem to think that once you turn the TV on, you just have to (14) ..... watching everything and anything. Let's hope that Mr Hackett doesn't (15) ..... up staring at his computer screen for hours every evening instead.

Recently there have been doubts about the proper functioning of the English legal system, after several well-publicized cases in (1) .....which..... police evidence was eventually shown to be suspect, but only after the wrongful conviction of the accused. In several of (2) ..... cases, the crimes involved acts of terrorism, and the police were (3) ..... considerable pressure to discover (4) ..... had been responsible. Although this in (5) ..... way excuses the actions of police officers (6) ..... may have falsified evidence, or suppressed evidence which worked against their case, (7) ..... underlines the ways (8) ..... which publicity in the press and on television exercises an enormous influence, (9) ..... the supposed guarantees under the law designed to prevent a jury (10) ..... becoming unduly influenced. The specific details of a criminal case are not discussed in the press before a case reaches the courts, and the names of those involved (11) ..... often withheld. (12) ..... , as many recent murder trials make clear, the press all too often reaches its (13) ..... verdict to suit its taste for sensationalism, and members of the police might be accused of enlisting the aid of the press by 'leaking' details of a prosecution. Unfortunately, far too few press reports of court cases examine the evidence (14) ..... the defence in the same spirit as (15) ..... for the prosecution.

The relationship between the British royal family and the popular press is curious, to (1) .....~~say~~..... the least. In many respects the press has yet to realize that the royals are indeed the goose that lays the golden egg. Royal scandals and royal divorces, illustrated with tasteless photographs and supported by the worst kind of journalistic excess, have proved to be just the thing (2) ..... raising newspaper circulation. The same papers that oozed sentimentality over royal weddings (3) ..... drooled over idealized princesses later went out of their way to hound various royals into separation or divorce. Every photograph became a contribution to (4) ..... new rumour or other; even private telephone conversations were printed on the front page. (5) ..... the press has yet to realize is that (6) ..... intrusions into the privacy of members of the royal family have also helped to create an atmosphere in (7) ..... the very existence of the monarchy has been called into question. The prestige of the royal family has undoubtedly suffered. And how could this not (8) ..... so, when their lives have been turned (9) ..... some absurd soap opera? Just (10) ..... the press feeds the illusion that the characters on television, such as those in Eastenders and Neighbours, are somehow 'real people', so it has reduced the royal family to the status of (11) ..... series of cardboard characters. And if you are secretly thinking, 'Well, that's what they are, anyway,' perhaps you are yet (12) ..... victim of the illusion. There are real issues still (13) ..... be debated about the role, and indeed the survival, of the royal family, issues to which the popular press has hardly contributed. If the monarchy (14) ..... lose its constitutional role, the press will be largely to blame. And ironically it will then (15) ..... lost one of its main circulation boosters, and killed off its golden goose for good.

Last week well over a thousand people (1) took place in / took part in our local round-the-city 10-kilometre fun run. This kind of race doesn't normally (2) appeal to me / amuse me as, frankly, I'm not really (3) cut out for / right for long-distance running. But I've got two friends who are dead keen runners and who keep going on about the (4) beneficial / positive effects of running. So I decided to run, partly for that reason and partly to (5) earn / raise money for charity. Friends and colleagues agreed to (6) sponsor / support me, and pay for each kilometre I completed. Well, I hadn't done much training for the big event, and after two kilometres I was (7) gasping / panting for breath, so I settled down to a slow jog and resigned myself to plodding along with the (8) strugglers / stragglers at the back of the race. At least I finished, and was very pleased with myself, as I didn't need to stop. I timed myself with a stop-watch, and reckon I (9) crossed / arrived at the finishing line in 43 minutes – not bad for a novice. The heat proved too much for a few people who'd gone off too fast for their capabilities and ended up (10) suffering from / showing exhaustion. Apparently, the course was very fast, and both of my friends ran a (11) personal best / personal record. The winner (12) surpassed / broke the course record. I was actually very impressed with the whole event; the organization was first-class, with medical volunteers (13) on duty / on standby throughout, and drinks (14) stops / stations every few kilometres of the route. So now the charity of my choice is £150 the richer, and as for me, I'm well and truly bitten by the running bug. I go running with my friends regularly now, and I'm actually starting to (15) catch up with / get near to them!

The history of media such as radio, television and now the internet shows an obvious pattern. Anything new that comes along always provokes a (1) ..... of disapproval before it gradually becomes a part of social life for everyone. Computers, for example, used to be very large machines running out of (2) ..... in science-fiction stories, until they became small enough and cheap enough to become common, first at work and then at home. Later, with the development of the internet, people became (3) ..... involved in the online world until we reached the point we are at today, when shopping, banking and paying bills, entertainment of many kinds, and (4) ..... interaction are all just as likely to take (5) ..... online. However, the more dependent we become on the internet, the more we need to understand how exactly people are using it, and whether there is anything which should genuinely (6) ..... us concern.

So what exactly are people worried about when they raise (1) ... to the digital age? Some critics believe that computers isolate people by encouraging them to spend hours (2) ..... to the screen, chatting to strangers or playing online games. Is it too easy to get (3) ..... away shopping for things we don't really need? Or do computers (4) ..... people together, making it easier for people to talk to one another and keep in (5) ....., whether they are lonely older people, or teenagers anxious to make friends? Some critics worry that computers can become addictive, and that we have all got into the (6) ..... of just looking online for no reason. One thing, though, is certain. The digital revolution has permanently changed the way we do business, the way we learn, and the way we entertain ourselves.

One of the groups of consumers targeted by advertisers is, oddly enough, a group with very little money of its own, but which has a huge (1) ..... the way others spend their money. And in some ways, children and advertisers could have been made for (2) ..... . After all, it is easy to fool younger children into believing (3) ..... anything and if an advertisement shows them how Biffo Breakfast Cereal will help them run faster than their friends, then (4) ..... they are concerned, that is the truth. They also have strong feelings of admiration for action heroes or cartoon characters or sports stars, and will want to be (5) ..... their favourite star, and drink the same cola or eat the same sweets. And when children want something badly enough, they won't stop nagging their parents until they (6) ..... it. Advertisements will even (7) ..... them with the arguments they can use when they are told that a water-firing robot or a giant chocolate bar is not good (8) ....., or too expensive, or not available in the supermarket. This is why most EU countries place (9) ..... upon television advertising aimed at children. Some countries have (10) ..... ban on ads promoting toys during children's programmes. Others restrict the advertising of unhealthy food, or ads involving anything dangerous. This seems to be a sensible way of preventing advertisers from taking (11) ..... of children, but in some ways it also helps to make a more damning (12) ..... . If it is generally agreed that children need (13) ..... from some kinds of advertising, then this (14) ..... to definite proof that advertising strongly influences children's behaviour. In that case, why should any advertising aimed at children be allowed? After all, isn't it just another form of brain-washing? Adults may (or may not) resist the (15) ..... claims of advertisers, but children clearly have not yet learnt to do this. This is why an EU-wide ban on advertising targeting children, or depicting children, is being called for in some quarters.

Whenever we read about the natural world nowadays, it is generally to be given dire predictions about its (1) ..... destruction. Some scientists go so (2) ..... as to assert that from now on, the world can no longer be called 'natural', insofar as future processes of weather, climate and all the interactions of plant and animal life will no longer carry on in their time-honoured way, unaffected by humans. There will never be such a thing as 'natural weather' again, say such writers, only weather affected by global warming. It is hard to know whether to believe such (3) ..... of doom, possibly because what they are saying seems too terrible to be true. There are other scientists who argue that climate, for example, has changed many times over the (4) ....., and that what we are experiencing now may simply be part of an endless (5) ..... of change, rather than a disaster on a global (6) ....., but this seems like an attempt to wish the problem away.

Dear David,

You'll never guess what's happened - I've only got a job! I saw an advert in the press for an administrative assistant at London Insurance, and sent in my CV and a (1) covering letter, more out of curiosity than anything else.

Well, to my surprise, I got an interview, and I managed to convince them that insurance is the (2) ..... I intend to pursue. Apparently, they were impressed with my ambition, especially when I said I was looking for a job with good (3) ....., and a week later I was offered the job.

They seem to look after you well - for example, I was told to send in a (4) ..... so that they could reimburse my (5) ..... to the interview. It's little things like that which make all the difference. I was also impressed by the (6) ..... at the office when I went for the interview. So I'm actually starting work on Monday! I've received my (7) ..... now, and it all seems very favourable. After a (8) ..... of one month, I'll be on a permanent contract with (9) ..... and paid holiday. There's even a company (10) ..... which I can join.

David, why don't you apply? They take on 20 new graduates each year. It would be right up your street.

Best wishes,
Fiona

Ask most people for their top ten fears, and you'll be sure to find being burgled fairly high on the (1) ..... . An informal survey I (2) ..... among friends at a party last week revealed that eight of them had had their homes broken into more than twice, and two had been burgled five times. To put the record (3) ..... , none of my friends owns valuable paintings or a sideboard full of family silverware. Three of them are students, (4) ..... . The most typical burglary, it seems, (5) ..... the theft of easily transportable items – the television, the laptop, the mobile phone, even food from the freezer. This may have something to do with the fact that the (6) ..... burglar probably wouldn't know what to do with a Picasso, (7) ..... selling a phone or a TV is a much easier (8) ..... . They are perhaps not so much professional criminals, as hard-up young people who need a few pounds and some excitement. Not that this makes having your house (9) ..... upside down and your favourite things stolen any easier to (10) ..... . In most (11) ..... , the police have no luck (12) ..... any of the stolen goods. Unless there is definite evidence, they are probably unable to do anything at all. And alarms or special locks don't (13) ..... to help either. The only advice my friends could (14) ..... was 'Never live on the ground floor' and 'Keep two or three very fierce dogs', which reminded me of a case I read about, where the burglars' (15) ..... included the family's pet poodle.

- It is not known exactly when gunpowder was invented. It is known for a fact that rockets and fireworks were made by the Chinese long before gunpowder was used in Europe, which was around the beginning of the thirteenth century. It is generally believed that the 'Age of Chivalry' was brought to an end by gunpowder, since a mounted knight could be brought down by anyone with a firearm. In fact, efficient firearms were not developed until the sixteenth century. When it was first introduced, gunpowder was used mainly in siege cannon. Later it was used in engineering work

- 6 Word processing and the calculator are without a shadow of doubt here to stay, and in the many respects our lives are the much richer for them. But the teachers and other academics are claiming that we are now starting to feel the first significant wave of their effects on a generation of the users. It seems nobody under the age of 20 can spell or add up any more. Even several professors at leading universities have commented on the detrimental effect the digital revolution has had on the most intelligent young minds in the country. At the root of one part of the problem, evidently, lies the automatic spellcheck now widely available on the word processing software. Professor John Silver of the Sydney University, Australia, said: 'Why should we bother to learn how to spell correctly, or for that matter to learn even the most basic of the mathematical sums, when at the press of a button we have our problem answered for us? The implications are enormous. Will the adults of the future look to the computer to make the decisions for them, to tell them who to marry or what kind of the house to buy? Are we heading for a future individual incapable of the independent human thought?'

Grammar 15

1 Having just spent three weeks of my life running round England for charity, I am in no fit state that to do anything except sit and write about my experiences, which suits me fine. In total I ran more than 400 kilometres, a figure which includes some extremely hilly routes, and the thought of putting on my running shoes again which is not one that I can face for a good few months yet. The journey, which I undertook with the assistance of friend who followed the same route by car, which was done in aid of a charity - Oxfam, a cause which I support whenever that I can. Having organized my sponsorship, which I planned my route, chosen to give me about 30 kilometres' running a day. My intention which was to try and rest one day every week, but after three days in which I pushed myself a bit too hard, considering the conditions, that I changed my plan and rested after every two days. Most of the time which I was able to keep to about 30 kilometres a day, which is manageable for someone of my age and fitness. I did have a few bad days, though, one of which I spent travelling in the car because one of my feet which was really painful. Still, when you run long distances, that it's the kind of thing you come to expect. I am pleased to say that in the end I managed to raise over £3000 for Oxfam.

I Text 1

I've been to the following Italian cities: Rome, Florence, Genoa(,) and Pisa. I thought Rome was incredible: the food was great, the views were fantastic(,) and I will never forget the vivacious people. The Italians' legendary hospitality was nowhere more evident than in the capital city. But my all-time favourite is probably Genoa, with its fabulous hill-top houses and its dusty mountains reverberating to the sound of grasshoppers. I spent many a happy hour looking down on the seething city below and the sea beyond. Best of all, the city's location at the heart of the Italian Riviera meant that fabulous resorts like Portofino and Camogli were only a train ride away.

Text 2

Water is becoming a more and more precious commodity, so save as much as you can. Flushing the toilet accounts for a third of all household water use, so don't flush wastefully. If you are only getting rid of a tissue, for example, resist the habit of reaching for the handle or chain. Take a shower rather than a bath: it uses about a third of the water. And don't keep the water running all the time when you wash or clean your teeth. If you have a garden, try to find ways of saving water outside, such as using a water butt to collect rain water, rather than using a hosepipe to water your flowers. A simple pipe connecting external gutters to a water butt can save an awful lot of water.

Martin: Yes, in two weeks' time. Is the job going to be involve a lot of travel to abroad?

Tina: A fair bit - Korea mainly. You'd better to get yourself a Korean phrasebook!

Martin: I've ever been to Korea once before, so I know a few words.

Tina: Good. We have contacts with most of Asian countries in fact. Well, here's the office you'll be working in. As you can see, in this room has a photocopier, your computer ... by the way, are you familiar with PowerPoint?

Martin: Well, to be perfectly honest, no. I've never really had needed it up to now.

Tina: You really need to spend a few hours in studying this book, then, if you don't mind. I'm sure it 'll explain you how the system works.

Martin: May I ask who that man was who was leaving the office when we came in?

Tina: Oh that's Mike. I'm surprised he wasn't at your interview. He's probably the nicest one of the managers.

Martin: He looks like very cheerful.

Tina: As I say it, he's a very nice guy. He's my immediate boss. The only thing is, he does tend to make me to do more jobs than I can cope with. Still, he's letting me to go home early today, so I'm not complaining!

Martin: And on to the subject of leaving, I didn't really understand what they were saying about this 'finish your task' system.

Tina: Oh, well it's just one of the systems you can choose. Basically, it means that the sooner you do finish, the sooner you can go to home. But if you finish your task, say, three hours over normal time, you can come in three hours of late the next day.
